Ruthless Purge Hits Czechs

Land Grab Ordered By Gottwald

Anti-Red Solon Found Injured

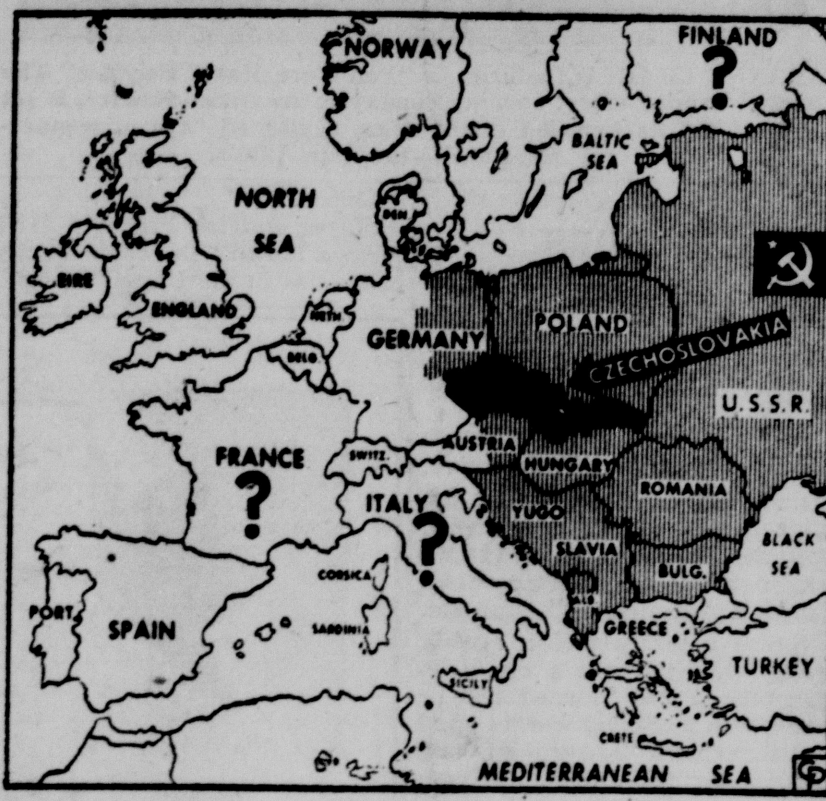

PRAGUE, Feb. 28—Communist Premier Klement Gottwald promised a "stern and ruthless purge" of Czechoslovakia's administration today, and announced drastic land reforms.

The new "strong-man" of Czechoslovakia told delegates of the Communist farmers committee that all landholdings exceeding 125 acres will be confiscated and portioned out to agricultural workers.

His statement was made shortly after Dr. Prokop Drtina, former minister of justice, was found lying below the window of his apartment and suffering from severe head wounds.

The Communist-dominated Prague police asserted that Dr. Drtina had attempted suicide.

An investigation of a leftist bomb plot in Noravia launched by Dr. Drtina when he was justice minister set off the chain of events which led ultimately to the Communist seizure of control.

WITH CZECHOSLOVAKIA under the Communist heel, Finland now becomes an uneasy neighbor of the USSR. Like the Czechs, the Finns have been under great external pressure. The Red Army is at their gate and the propaganda mills grind steadily. France, which has felt strong Communist internal pressure, was reported both indignant and alarmed as she joined the U. S. and Britain in protesting the Czech coup. Italy, with election-time tension mounting, also fears "pressure from within." The shaded portions of map show the European areas that are now under Communist influence or domination.

Finns Eye Reply To Red Demand

Assistance Pact Is Considered

HELSINKI, Feb. 28—Finlanders grew increasingly fearful today that the fate of Czechoslovakia will befall them as the Helsinki government drafted a reply to Russia's proposal that Finland sign a pact of mutual military assistance with the Soviet Union.

All Finnish political parties, excepting the Communists, oppose the alliance, but they resigned themselves to the impossibility of rejecting the invitation issued by Premier Stalin himself.

The invitation, reliably reported to have been in Stalin's handwriting, was handed to Finnish President Juho Paasikivi Monday.

Sources close to the government said the Russians had let it be known that they expected a reply before the week's end.

Accordingly, a Finnish government delegation probably will be named within 24 hours to go to Moscow and begin negotiations.

Pirate 5 Defeats Saltcreek, 47-31, In Final Contest

Scioto Captures Consolation Honors By Tripping Walnut

Saturday dawned the first quiet day in several moons for the Pickaway County basketball season was completed.

It ended Friday night in Fairgrounds Coliseum as Pickaway township high school convinced the last of the doubtful it was king of the local hardwood.

The Pirates, which had come through the county league schedule undefeated, continued their clean slate by grabbing the consolation trophy crown by whipping a stubborn Saltcreek quint 47-31 in the final encounter.

The victory sends Pickaway into district tournament. They will be accompanied by the runnerup, Saltcreek, as well as by the consolation winner, Scioto. The latter tripped Walnut in Friday night's curtain-raiser, 33-27.

5 Trophies Presented

2 More Awards Are Awaited

With the final game of the 1948 Pickaway County Class B basketball tournament reaching completion Friday night, six of eight trophies coming out of the tourney were awarded.

The other two awards will come next week.

One will be the all-tournament team selection to be made by the coaches.

The second will be the announcement of the winner of the Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy, which will go to the player who, in the estimation of the 11 county coaches, was the most outstanding man to appear.

The Memorial trophy, donated by The Circleville Herald in memory of Bob Bowsher of Circleville, a top-drawer athlete, student and citizen who was killed in action in World War II, will be awarded on a point-basis depending on the winner's attitude on the floor, his value to his team, his sportsmanship and his scholastic standing.

OF PRIMARY import was the championship trophy presentation Friday night.

The Pickaway Pirates were awarded the first place award after they handed the Saltcreek Warriors a 47-31 defeat in the

Blizzard, Floods, Winds Cause Damage In Nation

By International News Service

Blizzards, floods, windstorms, rain, cold and drought left a trail of death, a vast amount of property damage and considerable physical suffering in widely scattered sections of the nation today.

Hardest hit by the freakish elements yesterday was the Texas Panhandle where two men and a woman lost their lives when tornado winds and floods battered the upper half of the state.

Mrs. Sam Patterson, 62, was burned to death in her wind-wrecked farm home in Denton County, Northern Texas.

Chris Pace, 47, was killed when a high wind wrecked his home in Oakley, Tex., and an unidentified man perished when his automobile plunged into the Trinity river during a flood south of Dallas.

PAC Not Sure It Wants To Back Truman

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28—Jack Kroll, national director of the CIO's Political Action Committee, asserted today that the PAC was not yet and may not endorse President Truman for a new term.

Kroll told newsmen that "no candidate or party has us in its pocket." He added that "in addition there is a wide-open question if Mr. Truman could be elected if nominated," and continued:

"The CIO is not firmly behind Mr. Truman. We are not endorsing Mr. Truman or any other candidate."

Kroll revealed that one-fourth of the Ohio CIO's governing board favors the presidential candidacy of Henry A. Wallace, although steps are being taken to muzzle the minority.

A resolution condemning the third party movement, Kroll stated, was adopted by the governing board yesterday by a 14 to 5 vote, with the minority basing its opposition on a desire to support Wallace.

Kroll also expressed the opinion that the full state CIO executive committee of 60 members, meeting in Columbus tomorrow, will endorse the Democratic gubernatorial candidacy of former Cleveland Mayor Ray T. Miller over that of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche. Kroll also is president of the State CIO Council.

Taft In Ohio To Combat Stassen Move

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28—Ohio Senator Robert A. Taft returned to his home state today with intentions of shattering Harold E. Stassen's bid for presidential delegates at the May primaries.

Taft will deliver the kickoff address of an Ohio tour tonight in Cleveland where he will speak before some 1,500 Republican supporters.

It will be the first major address the senator has delivered in Ohio since the former Minnesota governor announced his intention of opposing Taft in the primary election.

Taft, chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee, also will make several other appearances in and around Cleveland today and tomorrow before returning to Washington. These will include talks to Negro and young Republican groups.

Congressman-at-Large George H. Bender, Cuyahoga County GOP chief, will preside at tonight's dinner gathering at which other state Republican heads, including Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, will be present.

Following his Cleveland appearance, Taft will go to Columbus where he will meet on March 8 with some 170 Republican leaders from the 11 congressional districts in which Stassen is seeking delegates.

Tigers Draw Grandview '5'

The Circleville Tigers will be pitted against Grandview in the District Class A basketball tournament to open Tuesday in State Fairgrounds Coliseum, Columbus.

The Circleville - Grandview game is scheduled for 9:45 p. m. Friday.

Coach Dorwin Peer, who was present in Columbus for the drawings Saturday, said Grandview is one of four seeded teams and this year won the championship of the Central Buckeye League. Other seeded teams are Newark, Columbus Central and Columbus West. Eighteen teams are entered in the meet.

Oldest Doctor In Ohio Dies

MARION, Feb. 28—Funeral services were arranged in Marion today for Dr. Auguste Rhu, believed to have been the oldest practicing physician in Ohio.

Dr. Rhu, who died at his home yesterday, would have been 99 Aug. 5. He was engaged in active practice until a few months before his death.

Move Opposed

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 28—The United States took the lead today in opposing a Belgian proposal for shelving of the Palestine partition issue pending a decision by the Big Five on whether armed intervention in the Holy Land is necessary.

Democrats Starting Move To Agree On Tax Slash

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—Senate Democratic leaders opened a new drive today to convince Treasury Secretary Snyder—and through him President Truman—that support of a tax cut in 1948 is politically imperative.

That word, it was learned, was being conveyed this weekend to Snyder, who is resting in Miami, Fla., on his doctor's orders. President Truman himself is at Key West, not far distant.

The move by minority leaders of the Senate to get a "green light" from the executive branch was launched virtually on the eve of the Senate finance committee's public hearings on the GOP tax reduction bill.

The Senate committee will open hearings Monday on the $6.5 billion cut which the House already has approved. A statement from Snyder, being sent to the committee, will be the first "testimony" on the Republican bill.

SENATE Democrats already have put out one feeler to find out how GOP senators would react to holding the tax cut to about $4 billion on a "non-partisan" basis. They carefully have not committed themselves to any program, however, because Mr. Truman and Snyder so far are opposed to any net reduction in tax revenues this year.

On the Republican side, there was a strong indication that majority senators would not attempt to slash the Knutson House bill below the level of a $4.5 billion tax savings. Best indication was that the Senate version would call for a tax cut of from $4.5 to $5 billion.

Republican leaders frankly recognize they must have Democratic support to pass a tax reduction bill over another presidential veto. To obtain that support, their cut must be more moderate than that approved by the House, Republicans admit.

Police Seeking Bogus Check Auto Buyers

Pickaway County authorities have opened a state-wide search for two West Virginia men, ages 27 and 30, who are suspected of passing an $1,850 bad check at the Clifton Motor Sales for the purchase of a 1946 Mercury.

The two men also are wanted for passing forged certificates in Ross and Gallia Counties in a three-county sweep attempting to "stick" garage owners and car dealers.

Elmer Clifton, owner of the local garage, said Saturday he would sign a warrant for the arrest of Fred Hall of W. Va., who is believed by Sheriff Charles Radcliff to be one of the forgers. Second man was not identified.

LAST SATURDAY the two men handed Clifton a check for $1,850 for the car. When the garage owner asked for proof of the check, one of the suspects showed him a bank book from the Saltcreek Valley Bank in Laurelville which showed deposits.

Spree To Cost Man Sentence

CINCINNATI, Feb. 28—A Dayton trucking executive, H. Q. Black, 27, was winding up his affairs today preparatory to serving a six-month sentence in the workhouse—the result of a spree that ended in his assuming the role of a deputy sheriff and leading Cincinnati police a merry chase in search of "an escaped murderer."

Cincinnati's municipal judge, Frank M. Gusweiler slapped on the sentence and fined Black court costs Thursday.

Black said Demon Rum was responsible for his story Dec. 4 that he was a policeman from Lake City, Fla., and that a murderer had escaped from him. That's when he and Cincinnati police went romping through the Cincinnati union terminal railroad yards after the "murderer."

Tourney Fans Proved To Be A Hungry Lot

More than 2,000 hot dogs, 200 pounds of popcorn and 8,400 bottles of soft drinks were sold by the New Holland high school senior class concession during the seven nights of Pickaway County Class B basketball tournament.

E. R. Garverick, superintendent of New Holland school, said an estimated $2,600 business at the concession stand was carried out during the week-long playoff. But for all the work, he figures only about $300 will reach his school's class fund.

Operation expenses were estimated at $1,700 with an additional $600 still to be remitted to the tournament fund which represented New Holland's bid for the concession business.

Barring an unseen rush at the last minute of the final round Friday night, Garverick disclosed the most money taken in during one night's play was $489 last Monday.

2 Men Held After Mishap

Two men were in Pickaway County jail Saturday following a two-car accident Friday night on State Route 23, four miles north of Circleville.

Jailed were Harold Baker, 31, Circleville Route 3, driver of one car, and Raymond Longhery, 27, of Reynoldsburg, owner of the car.

Both men were arrested by State Highway Patrolman L. G. Ridenour after Baker reportedly rammed his car into the rear of a second auto driven by Leonard Leasingham, 40, of Kingston. None of the occupants was injured.

Baker probably will be cited for drunken driving and Longhery for permitting Baker to drive while under the influence of alcohol, Patrolman Ridenour said.

The arresting officer stated Baker ran across a field after the accident and was not captured until two hours later.

Mail Truck Driver Held

STUEBENVILLE, Feb. 28—A mail truck driver, Raymond D. McKinley, was held in the Jackson County jail here under $2,500 bond today for the alleged theft of mail valued at $8,300.

U. S. postal investigators arrested McKinley, who drove the East Liverpool - Steubenville route, yesterday claiming he opened a registered mail pouch containing $1,300 in cash and $7,000 in bonds, checks and money orders last Jan. 12. The inspectors said they found $500 in currency in a soap can in McKinley's garage.

Dixie Splitting Demos, Claim

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—A House Republican leader declared today that Democratic opposition to this session to the GOP budget and tax cutting legislative program will be "virtually non-existent" as a result of Southern anger at the President.

He asserted that the Republican majority would be able to pass its program "in full and on our own terms" even over presidential vetoes.

The GOP chief made the prediction after watching House Democrats vote nearly 3 to 1 in support of a resolution calling for a $2.5 billion cut in the President's 1949 fiscal budget.

Finns Eye Reply To Red Demand

Assistance Pact Is Considered

HELSINKI, Feb. 28—Finlanders grew increasingly fearful today that the fate of Czechoslovakia will befall them as the Helsinki government drafted a reply to Russia's proposal that Finland sign a pact of mutual military assistance with the Soviet Union.

All Finnish political parties, excepting the Communists, oppose the alliance, but they resigned themselves to the impossibility of rejecting the invitation issued by Premier Stalin himself.

The invitation, reliably reported to have been in Stalin's handwriting, was handed to Finnish President Juho Paasikivi Monday.

Sources close to the government said the Russians had let it be known that they expected a reply before the week's end.

Accordingly, a Finnish government delegation probably will be named within 24 hours to go to Moscow and begin negotiations.

FINLAND actually has no choice but to comply with the demands of her powerful border neighbor.

It is feared that Stalin's letter may also outline economic and cultural clauses that will in fact place Finland behind the iron curtain.

The exact contents of Stalin's letter were not divulged. It is regarded significant that although the letter was given to President Paasikivi Monday, no cabinet meeting was called until Wednesday.

A reputable source said that Russian Ambassador General Sosenkov had to nudge Paasikivi into action. This indicates the true state of Finnish sentiment.

First reports that the Russians were pressing for a Finnish treaty came last October when Finnish circles disclosed that Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov discussed the subject with the Finnish delegation to Moscow's celebration of the 30th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

BUT POLITICAL opposition within Finland brought Molotov's talk to naught—until Stalin's letter.

First reports said that Stalin suggested a pact along the model treaty signed with Czechoslovakia in 1943. This bound both countries to refrain from entering alliances directed at the other, and to promote economic cooperation with each other.

But it also was indicated that the Russians may insist on standardization of Finnish army equipment with the Red army, and use of bases in Finland in case of war.

'Chute Lesson Said Inadequate

CINCINNATI, Feb. 28—Miss Bess L. Talmage of Springfield, Utah, is suing Carl L. Noelcke of Cincinnati for $21,210 in the Queen City courts for not showing her how to land in a parachute.

Miss Talmage claims she paid Noelcke $125 to teach her how to handle the big silk umbrellas, but she fractured a vertebrae in her back when he allowed her to jump from a plane in Cincinnati May 12, 1946.

She says Noelcke gave her "some instruction in the manufacture, repair, and packing" of the aerial life preservers, but she lacked "instruction in the manipulation of the risers of the parachute."

WINNING even runnerup position by Saltcreek was a definite credit to the Warriors. Coach Leslie Dearth had molded a team which brought home a trophy—the first Saltcreek had won in 17 years.

Winning the championship was no new thrill for Pickaway. It has taken home the winner's trophy five times in the last 10 years. New Holland, the 1947 defending championship, didn't have it this year. They stumbled early in the tournament, could not find the way even in the consolation bracket.

Nearly 3,000 persons—2,994 to be exact—jammed into the new $80,000 Coliseum to see the payoff battle.

A check with the bank disclosed the deposits had been forged. Sheriff Radcliff said bank officials admitted the men were strangers to them.

The deposit book indicated two checks totalling $4,050 had been endorsed by a Tom McCall and a third for $3.47 was endorsed by C. F. Manaman of Oak Hill, W. Va.

Clifton said when the men drove the car from his garage it had license plates 440-SL, however, when the car was later identified by Gallipolis police it carried West Virginia plates.

Gallipolis police reported the two men attempted to purchase two cars from dealers there purporting to have funds in the Circleville First National Bank. The suspects were foiled when the dealers refused to release the autos until the certificates cleared through the bank.

Their trail again was picked up, Radcliff said, when they passed a smaller bogus check in a Chillicothe filling station where they bought a new tire and gasoline.

Ohio Livestock Shows Decrease

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28.—The Federal State Crop Reporting Service estimated today that farm livestock decreased three percent in Ohio during 1947.

Specifically, the livestock report said that sheep dropped off eight percent; hogs, three; horses, 14; mules, ten; chickens, two, and turkeys, 32.

Cattle numbers remained approximately the same as a year earlier.

All over the nation, livestock numbers declined to the lowest level since 1939.

Meanwhile, values-per-head showed increases in Ohio for each species except turkeys, horses and mules.

Cattle values went up from an average $118 to $126; milk cows from $161 to $167; stock sheep from $12.40 to $13.60; hogs from $30.10 to $35.20, and chickens from $1.51 to $1.53.

Turkeys and horses showed no change at $7.40 and $60 respectively, while mules declined from $79 at the beginning of 1947 to $75 at year's end.

and losing out in the last period by a margin of 16 points, when the Pirates fired their big broadsides to finish on the long end of the 47-31 final.

THE SALT CREEK team was outplayed and outmaneuvered during the tilt, making a fine showing, however, considering the way the Pickaway boys went after them.

The Warriors were dogged from the very start of the fracas by a hard and fast pressing defense. The Pirates played the ball from the opening whistle the way most teams save for their last minute drives.

On the other hand, the Saltcreek lads conserved energy by employing a good shifting zone, which repulsed the Pirates successfully in the first half, but which failed to lend them aid in the all-important final canto.

High scorers for the major fray were Hewitt Harmount and Ned Wolfe, with 14 and 13 points respectively for the champions, trailed by Carl Justice of the second placers with a total of 10 points.

Third place in the county tournament was earned by the Scioto Buffaloes in the opener when they defeated the Walnut Tigers by a six point margin, 33-27.

THE SCIOTOANS racked up a total of eight points in every canto but the third, when they splurged for a total of 10. Walnut averaged about seven points per frame in the scrap, but scoring the most points per frame in the last two periods when they made the hoop pay off to the tune of 13 points in the third and 14 in the final.

Even with the fine work near the end of the game, the Tigers were unable to overcome their poor start.

With a little more than two minutes left to play and the score at 29-27, in their favor, the Buffalo aggregation started playing the game close, holding possession of the leather the rest of the game but for two exceptions.

Those exceptions were when they noticed Carl Shoaf standing alone under the goal, letting them have four more points on his two bunny shots.

High scorers for the tilt were Neil Barr and Bob Pontius for the losers, each with a total of 10 tallies, while Robert Painter and Bob Duvall held high for the winners with a total of eight markers apiece.

The World Mission of the Church

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Lesson on the above topic for February 29 is Acts 16:9-10; Romans 10:8-15; Ephesians 3:6-12; the Memory Verse being Mark 16:15, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation.")

PAUL WAS at Troas, a seacoast town of Asia Minor. In the night he was awakened by a vision; a man stood before him, a Macedonian, and he said, "Come over into Macedonia, and help us." Macedonia is the country generally designated as northern Greece, and Paul was sure that the Lord had sent this messenger to him because God wanted him to go to Macedonia to preach the gospel to those living there.

Paul lost no time in taking a boat and going first to Samothrace and then thence to Neapolis, then on to Philippi, the chief city of the country. This is Paul's second missionary journey. With Paul were Silas, Timothy and Luke, the latter afterwards writing this account.

A boat was provided, and the four Christian missionaries were on their way, coming to Philippi, Macedonia's chief city, where they abode for several days. This was the first time a Christian missionary had set foot on Europe's soil; the first to carry the Gospel to what then was and for many centuries remained, the great center of the western world. It was not an easy assignment. They received kindness and hospitality from Lydia, seller of purple, but later were thrown into prison and beaten, but this is often the lot of those who bring the gospel to ignorant or bigoted people.

If the teacher draws on the board a picture of the type of boat in which Paul and his companions set out to go to Macedonia, showing also a map of Troas and Macedonia, it would make it interesting, especially for the younger children. Comparisons between the means of travel in Paul's day and in our own would also interest children, even though the subject is not new.

Paul writes to the Romans in a letter to the Romans, written in 60 A. D. Paul writes that his desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved. Ignorance will not perform the task, ignorance of God's righteousness, nor "going about to establish their own righteousness."

"But what saith it? The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach; 'That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved.' 'For with the heart man believeth righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.' 'For the scripture saith, Whosoever believeth on Him shall not be ashamed.' Then he goes on, on the subject that was a cause of discussion in the still earlier days of the church—should the gospel be preached to Jews alone, or to Gentiles too? Paul says distinctly, 'For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek; for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon Him.' 'For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.' Then he appeals to the missionaries in these words: 'How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?' 'And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!' Paul tells not only how much need there is of missionaries to bring these glad tidings, but also how beautiful such work is, and how rewarding, no matter how difficult and full of hardships.

Paul is humble. Writing to the Ephesians three years later, Paul refers to himself as "less than the least of all saints," but even so "is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ; 'And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ: . . . 'According to the eternal purpose which He purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord: 'In whom we have boldness and access with confidence by the faith of Him.' This is a rather difficult lesson for children, but it can be made interesting by pointing out Paul's zeal to bring the message of the Gospel to all the world, and his exhortation to the members of the early church, urging upon them the necessity of spreading the gospel.

Church Briefs

Monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, of First Methodist church, will be held immediately after the church service, Thursday evening, instead of the usual Thursday afternoon. Members are asked to assemble in the church parlor, for a short business session. This change of meeting has been made so as not to conflict with the Lenten program of the church.

Regular meeting of Boy Scout Troop 205 will be at 7 p. m. Monday in Scout room of the Presbyterian church.

Administrative council of First Evangelical United Brethren church meets in the Sanctuary at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

FOOD FROM America saves the lives of thousands of such children as these little Italians of Scala. American churches raised millions of dollars for world relief in 1947, and are launching 1948 campaigns for a similar amount, looking toward the spiritual as well as the physical rehabilitation of people in war-devastated countries.

Ohio Methodist Church To Be Honored Sunday

The first Methodist church in the great Ohio River Valley will be honored Sunday in another of the unique "Church Bells of America" series, a feature heard every Sunday morning at 10:30 (EST) over 57 NBC stations.

The Milford (Ohio) Methodist Church—"The Mother Church of Methodism in the North West Territory"—was founded in the year 1797. The inspiration and leader of those first meetings of the early settlers was Francis McCormick—a disciple of Bishop Asbury, "The Prophet of the Long Road," who rode circuit to the outposts of America for 45 years. McCormick had made the first clearing in that vast stretch of wilderness and had built the log cabin where those meetings were held.

'The Church' Is Talk Topic At First EUB

Third Sunday in Lent will find First Evangelical United Brethren church considering the general theme, "The Church," with the pastor, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, speaking on the topic, "The Spiritual Church," at the 10:30 a. m. worship.

The junior church for children under 12 years of age meets in the Children's Chapel at 10:30 a. m. for an illustrated lesson with Mrs. Wilson in charge. This is a typical juvenile worship with the children participating in all parts of the order of service.

The Youth Fellowship meets in the Sunday school room at 6:30 p. m. with Gerald Hixon leading the lesson study.

At 7:30 p. m., the pastor will conduct an evangelistic service, "Unfaltering Faith."

tee will meet following the regular session. The social relations commission promises to have a special guest present.

Senior choir rehearsal of Trinity Lutheran church at 7:45 p. m. Thursday.

Dorcas-Pathfinder class of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church will meet Friday in the home of Miss Jennie Dean for their monthly business and social meeting. Miss Jennie Dean and Mrs. Minnie Lump are the hostesses. Mrs. C. J. Martin and Mrs. Lemuel Dewey have charge of the program. A history of reminiscences of the class will be presented as a part of the program.

Women's Guild of St. Philip's Episcopal church, will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the parish house.

Fourth number of the Lenten series will be held in the church sanctuary, of First Methodist church at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Rev. Elisha Kneisley will speak from the subject: "When Things Come To Pass." Jean Heine, contralto, will sing "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

The Tri-County Ministerium of the Evangelical United Brethren church will hold its monthly meeting in the Yellowbud EUB church at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. This ministerium is composed of ministers and their wives who serve EUB churches of the Ohio conference, which are located in Pickaway, Franklin and Fairfield counties.

Sunday school orchestra of Trinity Lutheran church will practice at 6 p. m. Saturday.

Monthly vestry meeting of St. Philip's Episcopal church will be at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

In 1798 the Kentucky conference of the Methodist church sent the Rev. John Kobler as a missionary to the Milford area. His coming to Ohio is cited as one of the historic landmarks of the Church. On Aug. 2, 1798, Rev. Mr. Kobler preached in Francis McCormick's cabin the first sermon in the territory by a regularly-constituted missionary.

For the next 60 years, Milford was part of a circuit and was served by a circuit rider. Because of the extent of territory covered, the itinerant minister came infrequently—usually only once in six weeks.

With a membership of 750 in 1805, Milford was the most important location in the territory, and in 1806 the congregation erected a new two-story chapel. The church auditorium had two entrances, one for the men and one for the women, who sat on opposite sides of the room with a three-foot partition down the center.

This Methodist chapel is still in use and remains as an inspirational reminder of the religious life of the early American frontier. This Sunday the Milford Methodist church will be honored nationally by the ringing of its century-old church bell, the retelling of the colorful history of the church and its bell.

Better Church Leadership Is Asked By Solon

BOSTON, Feb. 28—Suggestions for increasing the influence of the Church in this country, including the "weeding out of unfit ministers" and greater participation of women in official affairs, were made by Gov. Ernest W. Gibson of Vermont.

Gibson said, "Too many ministers in the Church lack the qualities of leadership required in these critical times. We are too prone to keep ministers, once we get them, until they retire," he charged.

Gibson said it is the "No. 1. business for Americans to go to church," and that their "No. 1. Club" should be a church instead of a fraternal organization.

Five Delegates Named For World Church Meet

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28—Announcement of Ohio's five delegates to the first assembly of the World Council of Churches to be held in Amsterdam, Holland, Aug. 22 to Sept. 5, today drew from Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, a statement in praise of the leaders who have held to the thought of the word council until it actually is within sight.

"For 30 years the idea has been growing," Dr. Lamb said, "with progress marked by notable landmarks. That the formation of the council as a continuing body should come now is a proof of divine approval. It has survived the disruptions of war and the isolation of church from church."

"Here in Ohio we know the benefits that have flowed from united action, brought about by the organization of the Ohio Council of Churches. The far more significant service is rendered by the Federal Council of Churches, and now the ultimate service needed in this world of woe is the extension of the organization to include the churches of the world."

"The council to be inaugurated in Amsterdam will be a council of churches, strictly. It will not be another church any more

Local Congregation Set For Radio Broadcast

During 1947, American churches gave over $5 million in cash, and more than 15 million pounds of miscellaneous supplies to help the hungry, sick, naked peoples of war-wrecked countries in Europe and Asia. During 1947 the Episcopal church raised $1 million in cash, and gathered tons of supplies.

In view of needs that increase rather decrease, the Episcopal church throughout the country is trying to secure another million dollars for 1948. . . most of it in one day!

Launching the effort the presiding bishop of the church, the Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, will speak directly to congregations gathered in their parish churches Sunday.

The morning services will begin and continue as usual, up to exactly 11:32½ a. m., when Bishop Sherrill's voice will be heard in thousands of churches from coast to coast, through an unprecedented combination of network and independent radio stations, a combination so vast that it will reach the smallest and remotest mission as well as the great city church. Literally there is no part of the whole United States that will not be reached by Bishop Sherrill's statement about bitter need as he himself has seen it in Europe,

Sermon Booked On 'Prayer' By Lutherans

"The Strongest Secret Weapon, Christian Prayer" will be the theme of Sunday morning service in Trinity Lutheran church. The pastor, the Rev. George L. Troutman, will develop this theme taking the text from St. Matthew 6:6. Worship service will be at 10:15 a. m.

Carl C. Leist will direct the senior choir in singing the anthem with Mrs. Karl Herrmann, church organist, at the console.

Previous to the worship service, the study, for all ages will assemble in the parish house. Subject for the adult and junior departments will be "How to Witness for Christ". Ned Dreisbach is superintendent of adult and junior departments. Mrs. Harold Anderson is superintendent of the primary and intermediate departments.

Calvary EUB To Continue Sermon Series

At the morning worship service the Rev. James A. Herbst, pastor, of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church will continue his series of sermons on the "Fundamentals of Christian Living" in the presentation of a sermon on tithing.

The topic which he has chosen is "Christian or Robber", based upon the text found in Malachi 3:8.

As the special musical number of the service the choir, accompanied by Miss Minnie Wilkerson will sing the anthem "Thy Word is a Lamp" by Fred B. Holton.

In the evening service, after the singing of gospel songs, the pastor will preach the sermon entitled "Victory Over Tedium."

and the part of Christians everywhere in relieving the needs of fellow-Christians overseas. . . and the bringing of new hope to people who have lost even the sense of human dignity.

In Circleville, St. Philip's church is cooperating in the Episcopal relief campaign. The Rev. L. C. Sherburne, pastor, said Saturday radio equipment has been set up and that everything will be in order so that at the specified instant, the presiding bishop will be heard by the congregation here.

Presbyterians Schedule Men's Day Service

At the Presbyterian church Sunday a special Men's Day service of worship is planned for 10:30 a. m. by the Mens Day committee. Judge James F. Bell, an elder in the London Presbyterian church, and judge of the court of common pleas, is to be the guest in the Presbyterian pulpit. The subject of his message is, "And His Hands Were Steady".

Judge Bell is a graduate of De Pauw university and of Ohio State law school. He served with the FBI during the war, and since his return has been active in church and civic affairs.

Special music for this occasion will be a solo, "The Publican," by Van De Water, sung by Melvin Yates. Mrs. Theodore L. Huston at the console will play, "Grand Chorus" by Guilmant; "Melody" by Rimsky-Korsakoff; "Fantasie in F Minor," by Chopin.

Third Lenten Sermon Booked By Minister

The Rev. Elisha Kneisley will preach the third number in a series of Lenten sermons, "Jesus On The Mountain" at the 10:30 a. m. Sunday worship service of First Methodist church.

Mrs. Ervin Leist, church organist, will play, "Exaltation," by Demorest; "I Saw The Place Where Jesus Stood," contralto Solo, by Beverly Reid; and "Recessional," by Lorenx. The vested choir, with Mrs. Harold Deffenbaugh, director, will sing the anthem, "Go to Dark Gethsemane," by Noble.

Church school and religious education is at 9:15 a. m. with superintendents W. Earl Hilyard, Vaden Couch, and Wendell Turner, in charge. The school is organized into departments and classes for all age groups.

Household Hints

On windy days, take sheets off the clothesline as soon as they are dry because flapping whips out the hems.

Milk loses some of its flavor and vitamins when left standing in direct sun, even in cold weather.

Use one pound of animal glue to one gallon of water for making a solution with which to size small rugs.

Excerpt from Teachings of the BAHAI FAITH

"For man, two wings are necessary. One wing is material civilization; the other is divine civilization. With one wing only, flight is impossible. Two wings are essential."

(The International Lesson on the above topic for February 29 is Acts 16:9, 10; Romans 10:8-15; Ephesians 3:8-12 the Memory Verse being Mark 16:15, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation.")

PAUL WAS at Troas, a seacoast town of Asia Minor. In the night he was awakened by a vision; a man stood before him, a Macedonian, and he said, "Come over into Macedonia, and help us." Macedonia is the country generally designated as northern Greece, and Paul was sure that the Lord had sent this messenger to him because God wanted him to go to Macedonia to preach the gospel to those living there.

Paul lost no time in taking a boat and going first to Samothrace and from thence to Neapolis, then on to Philippi, the chief city of the country. This is Paul's second missionary journey. With Paul were Silas, Timothy and Luke, the latter afterwards writing this account.

A boat was provided, and the four Christian missionaries were on their way, coming to Philippi, Macedonia's chief city, where they abode for several days. This was the first time a Christian missionary had set foot on Europe's soil; the first to carry the Gospel to what then was, and for many centuries remained, the great center of the western world. It was not an easy assignment. They received kindness and hospitality from Lydia, seller of purple, but later were thrown into prison and beaten, but this is often the lot of those who bring the gospel to ignorant or bigoted people.

If the teacher draws on the board a picture of the type of boat in which Paul and his companions set out to go to Macedonia, showing also a map of Troas and Macedonia, it would make it interesting, especially for the younger children. Comparisons between the means of travel in Paul's day and in our own would also interest children, even though the subject is not new.

Paul Writes to the Romans
In a letter to the Romans, written in 60 A. D., Paul writes that his desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved. Ignorance will not pervade the task, ignorance of God's righteousness, nor "going about to establish their own righteousness."

"But what saith it? The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach: "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."

"For with the heart man believeth righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

"For the scripture saith, Whosoever believeth on Him shall not be ashamed." Then he goes on, on the subject that was a cause of discussion in the still earlier days of the church—should the gospel be preached to Jews alone, or to Gentiles too? Paul says distinctly, "For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek; for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon Him."

"For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Then he appeals to the missionaries in these words: "How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?"

"And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!"

Paul tells not only how much need there is of missionaries to bring these glad tidings, but also how beautiful such work is, and how rewarding, no matter how difficult and full of hardships.

Paul Is Humble
Writing to the Ephesians three years later, Paul refers to himself as "less than the least of all saints," but even so "is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ;"

"And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ:"

"According to the eternal purpose which He purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord:"

"In whom we have boldness and access with confidence by the faith of Him."

This is a rather difficult lesson for children, but it can be made interesting by pointing out Paul's zeal to bring the message of the Gospel to all the world, and his exhortation to the members of the early church, urging upon them the necessity of spreading the gospel.

Church Briefs

Monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, of First Methodist church, will be held immediately after the church service, Thursday evening, instead of the usual Thursday afternoon. Members are asked to assemble in the church parlor, for a short business session. This change of meeting has been made so as not to conflict with the Lenten program of the church.

Regular meeting of Boy Scout Troop 205 will be at 7 p. m. Monday in Scout room of the Presbyterian church.

Administrative council of First Evangelical United Brethren church meets in the Sanctuary at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

Trinity Lutheran church will hold its fourth mid-week Lenten service at 7 p. m. Wednesday. Following the Lenten service the fourth in the series of doctrinal lectures will be given on the general theme "The Great Doctrines Of Our Salvation." Wednesday's study will center about "The Holy Trinity."

Parents desiring their children baptized Palm Sunday, or those wishing to unite with First Methodist church, are asked to call phone number 176. Rev. Elisha Kneisley will contact them.

Westminster Bible Class of the Presbyterian church, will meet at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Fred A. Howell on Reber avenue.

Girl's Missionary Guild of First Evangelical United Brethren church meets at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Marjorie and Marilyn Francis, 346 East Main street. The program is a Biblical study on stewardship with each member asked to bring a Bible.

Trinity Lutheran junior choir rehearsals are scheduled Monday and Thursday evenings at 6:30 p. m.

Boy Scout Troop 107 will meet in the recreation room of First Methodist church. Paul Warden, Scoutmaster will be in charge.

Group C, Women's Association of the Presbyterian church, will meet at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Melvin Yates, 360 East Union street.

Intermediate and senior youth fellowship, will meet at 6 p. m. Sunday in the parlor First Methodist church. Roscoe Warren will tell some of the experiences of his brother who is a missionary in India.

Women's Bible class of the Presbyterian church will meet at 2:30 p. m. Friday in the home of Mrs. Charles Nauman, 430 South Washington street.

The fourth Lenten crusade service sponsored by First Evangelical United Brethren church, will be at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. Shining Light class will conduct devotions. The sound film, "The Power of God" will be shown to depict the theme of the evening, "Seeing the Light—of Renewed Faith."

Mrs. Marion's Bible class, of First Methodist church will hold its monthly meeting, in the home of Mrs. Leonard Williams, Park Place.

The Rev. E. G. Ritenburg of the British West Indies will conduct a special missionary service at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in Pilgrim Holiness church, 326 Logan street. The Rev. Alonzo Hill is pastor of the local church.

Dr. H. E. Bright, superintendent of the Chillicothe district, has a meeting of the ministers of the district, to meet in First Methodist church, Tuesday, from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. to consider matters relative to the closing of the conference year's work.

Holy Communion will be observed at 10 a. m. Tuesday in St. Philip's Episcopal church.

Childrens catechetical classes of Trinity Lutheran church will meet with the pastor, the Rev. G. L. Troutman, at 4 p. m. Monday and 9:30 a. m. Saturday.

Mrs. J. E. Millirons is the leader. Annual election of officers will be conducted by the Pastor. The Executive Commit-

FOOD FROM America saves the lives of thousands of such children as these little Italians of Scala. American churches raised millions of dollars for world relief in 1947, and are launching 1948 campaigns for a similar amount, looking toward the spiritual as well as the physical rehabilitation of people in war-devastated countries.

Ohio Methodist Church To Be Honored Sunday

The first Methodist church in the great Ohio River Valley will be honored Sunday in another of the unique "Church Bells of America" series, a feature heard every Sunday morning at 10:30 (EST) over 57 NBC stations.

The Milford (Ohio) Methodist Church—"The Mother Church of Methodism in the Northwest Territory"—was founded in the year 1797. The inspiration and leader of those first meetings of the early settlers was Francis McCormick—a disciple of Bishop Asbury, "The Prophet of the Long Road", who rode circuit to the outposts of America for 45 years. McCormick had made the first clearing in that vast stretch of wilderness and had built the log cabin where those meetings were held.

'The Church' Is Talk Topic At First EUB

Third Sunday in Lent will find First Evangelical United Brethren church considering the general theme, "The Church," with the pastor, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, speaking on the topic, "The Spiritual Church," at the 10:30 a. m. worship.

The junior church for children under 12 years of age meets in the Children's Chapel at 10:30 a. m. for an illustrated lesson with Mrs. Wilson in charge. This is a typical juvenile worship with the children participating in all parts of the order of service.

The Youth Fellowship meets in the Sunday school room at 6:30 p. m. with Gerald Hixon leading the lesson study.

At 7:30 p. m., the pastor will conduct an evangelistic service, "Unfaltering Faith."

Senior choir rehearsal of Trinity Lutheran church at 7:45 p. m. Thursday.

Dorcas-Pathfinder class of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church will meet Friday in the home of Miss Jennie Dean for their monthly business and social meeting. Miss Jennie Dean and Mrs. Minnie Lump are the hostesses. Mrs. C. J. Martin and Mrs. Lemuel Dewey have charge of the program. A history of reminiscences of the class will be presented as a part of the program.

Women's Guild of St. Philip's Episcopal church, will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the parish house.

Fourth number of the Lenten series will be held in the church sanctuary, of First Methodist church at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Rev. Elisha Kneisley will speak from the subject: "When Things Come To Pass." Jean Heine, contralto, will sing "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

The Tri-County Ministerium of the Evangelical United Brethren church will hold its monthly meeting in the Yellowbud EUB church at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. This ministerium is composed of ministers and their wives who serve EUB churches of the Ohio conference, which are located in Pickaway, Franklin and Fairfield counties.

Sunday school orchestra of Trinity Lutheran church will practice at 6 p. m. Saturday.

Monthly vestry meeting of St. Philip's Episcopal church will be at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Local Congregation Set For Radio Broadcast

During 1947, American churches gave over $5 million in cash, and more than 15 million pounds of miscellaneous supplies to help the hungry, sick, naked peoples of war-wrecked countries in Europe and Asia. During 1947 the Episcopal church raised $1 million in cash, and gathered tons of supplies.

In view of needs that increase rather decrease, the Episcopal church throughout the country is trying to secure another million dollars for 1948. . . most of it in one day!

Launching the effort the presiding bishop of the church, the Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, will speak directly to congregations gathered in their parish churches Sunday.

The morning services will begin and continue as usual, up to exactly 11:32½ a. m., when Bishop Sherrill's voice will be heard in thousands of churches from coast to coast, through an unprecedented combination of network and independent radio stations, a combination so vast that it will reach the smallest and remotest mission as well as the great city church. Literally there is no part of the whole United States that will not be reached by Bishop Sherrill's statement about bitter need as he himself has seen it in Europe.

Sermon Booked On 'Prayer' By Lutherans

"The Strongest Secret Weapon, Christian Prayer" will be the theme of Sunday morning service in Trinity Lutheran church. The pastor, the Rev. George L. Troutman, will develop this theme taking the text from St. Matthew 6:6. Worship service will be at 10:15 a. m.

Carl C. Leist will direct the senior choir in singing the anthem with Mrs. Karl Herrmann, church organist, at the console.

Previous to the worship service, the study, for all ages will assemble in the parish house. Subject for the adult and junior departments will be "How to Witness for Christ". Ned Dreisbach is superintendent of adult and junior departments. Mrs. Harold Anderson is superintendent of the primary and intermediate departments.

Calvary EUB To Continue Sermon Series

At the morning worship service the Rev. James A. Herbst, pastor, of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church will continue his series of sermons on the "Fundamentals of Christian Living" in the presentation of a sermon on tithing.

The topic which he has chosen is "Christian or Robber", based upon the text found in Malachi 3:8.

As the special musical number of the service the choir, accompanied by Miss Minnie Wilkerson will sing the anthem "Thy Word is a Lamp" by Fred B. Holton.

In the evening service, after the singing of gospel songs, the pastor will preach the sermon entitled "Victory Over Tedium."

Five Delegates Named For World Church Meet

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28—Announcement of Ohio's five delegates to the first assembly of the World Council of Churches to be held in Amsterdam, Holland, Aug. 22 to Sept. 5, today drew from Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, a statement in praise of the leaders who have held to the thought of the word council until it actually is within sight.

"For 30 years the idea has been growing," Dr. Lamb said, "with progress marked by notable landmarks. That the formation of the council as a continuing body should come now is a proof of divine approval. It has survived the disruptions of war and the isolation of church from church."

"Here in Ohio we know the benefits that have flowed from united action, brought about by the organization of the Ohio Council of Churches. The far more significant service is rendered by the Federal Council of Churches, and now the ultimate service needed in this world of woe is the extension of the organization to include the churches of the world."

"The council to be inaugurated in Amsterdam will be a council of churches, strictly. It will not be another church any more and the part of Christians everywhere in relieving the needs of fellow-Christians overseas. . . and the bringing of new hope to people who have lost even the sense of human dignity.

In Circleville, St. Philip's church is cooperating in the Episcopal relief campaign. The Rev. L. C. Sherburne, pastor, said Saturday radio equipment has been set up and that everything will be in order so that at the specified instant, the presiding bishop will be heard by the congregation here.

Presbyterians Schedule Men's Day Service

At the Presbyterian church Sunday a special Men's Day service of worship is planned for 10:30 a. m. by the Mens Day committee. Judge James F. Bell, an elder in the London Presbyterian church, and judge of the court of common pleas, is to be the guest in the Presbyterian pulpit. The subject of his message is, "And His Hands Were Steady".

Judge Bell is a graduate of De Pauw university and of Ohio State law school. He served with the FBI during the war, and since his return has been active in church and civic affairs.

Special music for this occasion will be a solo, "The Publican," by Van De Water, sung by Melvin Yates. Mrs. Theodore L. Huston at the console will play, "Grand Chorus" by Guilmant; "Melody," by Rimsky-Korsakoff; "Fantaisie in F Minor," by Chopin.

Third Lenten Sermon Booked By Minister

The Rev. Elisha Kneisley will preach the third number in a series of Lenten sermons, "Jesus On The Mountain" at the 10:30 a. m. Sunday worship service of First Methodist church.

Mrs. Ervin Leist, church organist, will play, "Exaltation," by Demarest; "I Saw The Place Where Jesus Stood," contralto Solo, by Beverly Reid; and "Recessional," by Lorenz. The vested choir, with Mrs. Harold Deffenbaugh, director, will sing the anthem, "Go to Dark Gethsemane," by Noble.

Church school and religious education is at 9:15 a. m. with superintendents W. Earl Hilyard, Vaden Couch, and Wendell Turner, in charge. The school is organized into departments and classes for all age groups.

Household Hints

On windy days, take sheets off the clothesline as soon as they are dry because flapping whips out the hem.

Milk loses some of its flavor and vitamins when left standing in direct sun, even in cold weather.

Use one pound of animal glue to one gallon of water for making a solution with which to size small rugs.

BEAL QUESTION

DR. CHARLES P. LYMAN, assistant curator of the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology, and Fish and Game Deputy Commissioner W. Earl Bradbury of Augusta, Maine, disagree on the question of whether bears hibernate in winter. This is a restful contest. It does not involve questions of policy, foreign or domestic. It has no immediate bearing on the economic situation, and has nothing to do with the presidential election.

It started with the fact that the Maine woods are full of large black bears this winter, and the farmers and game wardens are not equipped to cope with them.

The game commissioner firmly claims that bears have hitherto slept all winter, and that such is normal behavior for bears. The Harvard expert declares that only woodchucks, ground squirrels and bats hibernate. Bears get a lot of sleep in the winter, he admits, but never enter a state of suspended animation.

The recent devastating forest fires in Maine are recalled. Perhaps lack of cover may make the bears more noticeable this year. The customary hiding places of many animals may have been destroyed.

If the disputants cannot agree, perhaps someone had better ask the bears.

RED MONROE DOCTRINE

IS THERE a Russian "Monroe Doctrine?" Henry Wallace seems to think there is; some Russian sympathizers in this country certainly do. According to this idea, Eastern Europe is territory from which the Russians justifiably bar outside aggression, just as we promise to do in South and Central America. Put like this, the Russian supremacy over its satellites does not sound so bad.

One important difference exists, however, which the veteran writer on public affairs, Sir Norman Angell, points out in his new book, "The Steep Places". The Russians do not merely protect Yugoslavia and its neighbors from outsiders; they choose their governments, and if necessary order the local Communist sympathizers to start a revolution. The United States does not dream of such action. We do not like Peron in Argentina, but we have financed no revolutionary movement against him.

Superficial resemblances often are far from telling the whole story. The present Czechoslovakian situation is definitely a case in point. It may subside for the present, uncomfortably for the Czechs and Slovaks, or it may be working into an explosion which will rock the world.

There was a time when there were no locomotive whistles, and it may be a good guess that such a time will come again, as the poets say, "with the revolving years."

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up and about on a darkening day that soon lived up to its threat of rain. But it was rain, not snow and that is something. Met Bill Kochheiser, who with John Maddux went to Florida to miss some of our February weather. Basked in the sunshine, caught some inland bass and had some luck at reef fishing. "Wouldn't trade a week in the North woods for an entire winter in Florida," is Bill's comment. My idea, too.

Dropped in at John Himrod's antique shop and found him busy making a special table for the county engineer's office. Antique business way off right now and the reason not evident. Got a renewal of a promise to deliver enough kiln dried walnut to make a gun case. Cut on John's farm where he is putting the finishing touches on his lovely new home. Very close to where water is supposed to be accumulating in Memorial lake, but is not. Talk is that work of lake building will start in April. We heard the same talk about a starting date last Fall.

Fred Clark brought in a letter from Frank C. Radcliff, now of Alexandria, O. Praise for these prints penned by the former local resident. Exchanged grins and greetings with John Goeller, the banker, and passed the time of day with Bill Reid, the former councilman, who does not get downtown as much now as in former years, but who is holding his health well.

Hurt by the news of Harley Colwell's death. Liked him from the first time I saw him some dozen years ago. Learned from him much about the early days in Circleville and heard from him nothing except praise for any man or woman he ever knew.

There goes Bill Frazier and his thousand dollar grin. Won the grand makings in a raffle conducted by a Columbus VFW post. Had just one ticket and it paid off in a big way. Learned that Fred H. ## These Days

For some reason, not understandable, President Truman, in 1946, appointed an aged missionary, Dr. Leighton Stuart, as the American ambassador to China. He followed a long line of extraordinary competent men, John Van Antwerp MacMurray, Nelson T. Johnson, Clarence E. Gauss.

These men knew China, knew its language, its history, its traditions, its personalities. MacMurray was one of the leading scholars of his time in China's international relations, probably second only to Dr. Westel W. Willoughby of Johns Hopkins.

The China desk in the State department has usually been in the charge of an outstanding, world-known authority on Far Eastern affairs, one whose reputation went far beyond the confines of the State department. The last of men of such calibre was Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, who held the post under various titles from 1928 to 1944, but whose influence waned as the New Dealers became more influential in the control of our foreign policy. In his place appeared a cabal of intriguing young men who served not the national interest but their private opinion. The Far Eastern section of the State Department became a private club of smart boys.

To China were sent General Pat Hurley, General Joe Stillwell, General George Marshall, General Wedemeyer and the ancient missionary, Dr. Stuart Hurley, with his sense of practical politics, saw the picture as it is: namely, that the enemy is Soviet Russia and that the Chinese Communists would sooner or later be instructed to hate the United States. He did not elevate Chiang Kai-shek into an angel of pristine purity; he saw him as the inevitable ally of the United States. That was all that could be required.

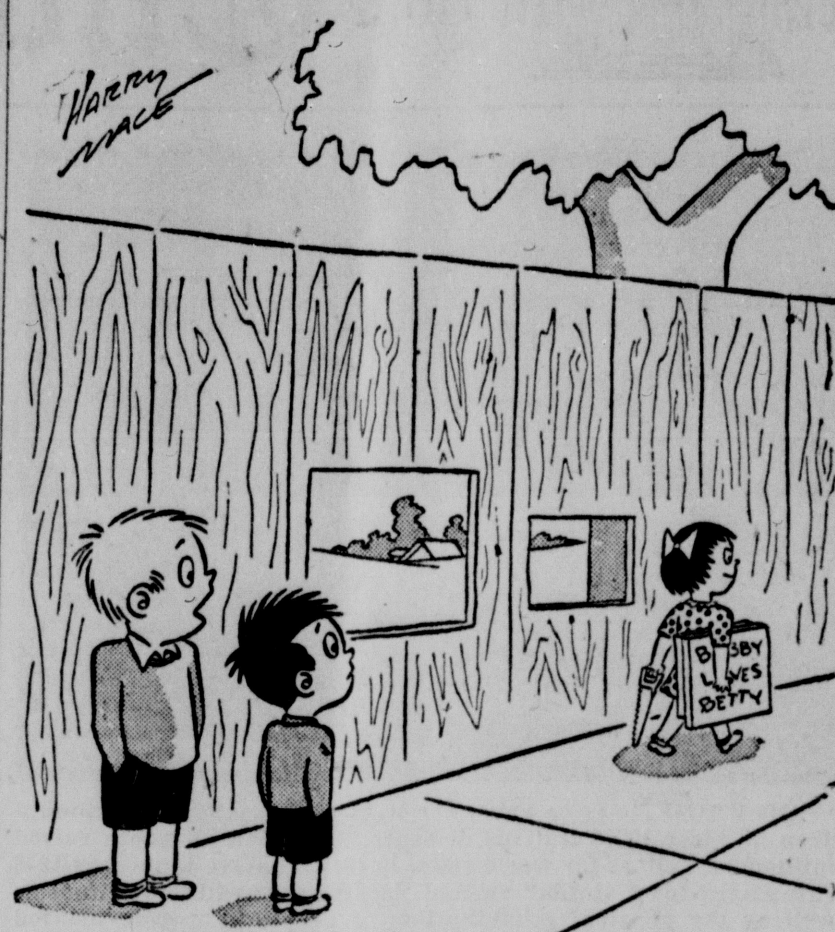

General Stillwell saw only himself. He wanted to run the show. He was used to running any show he was appointed to run. The fact that China had a government of its own, an army, a general staff; the further fact that the Chinese, in their primitive way, had managed to withstand and to kill Japanese for more years than Stillwell was a general, did not interest "Vinegar" Joe. He told Chiang Kai-shek to hand over his army—which in war meant the entire country—to him. Chiang told him to clear out. China has survived many Stillwells in its 4,000 years of history.

So along came General Marshall. He brought the light of the ages: Love thine enemy. No one can question the vitality of the adage, except that Chiang Kai-shek had tried it on and off since 1925. Chiang has had a long experience of trying to do business with Russia and its agents, the Chinese Communists. As a matter of fact, China has had a longer experience, since the Treaty of Nerchinsk (1689). But Marshall thought he would try his hand at it.

He stayed in China more than a year and took a violent dislike to Chiang Kai-shek and the Kuomintang. They reminded him of Boss Hague of New Jersey, Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Boss Crump of Memphis, Boss Kelly of Chicago, Harry Hopkins, George Allen, and lots of other American politicians. He apparently preferred the Chinese Communists because he did not know them. So he came away a complete failure. He blamed Chiang Kai-shek for that. Of course, he might have read some history and he might have known that it is ever thus.

When a Baby is Malformed

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
SOMETIMES a baby comes into the world ill-fitted for life by reason of some bodily malformation present at the time of birth. Fortunately, today the skill of the surgeon is such that many of these defects of nature so that many of these children can now be saved. One of these disorders is known as atresia of the esophagus.

Operation Necessary
In this condition, the upper end of the esophagus has not united with the lower end; hence, an operation must be performed to bring the two ends together. The sooner the operation is done, the better, since the infant, as a result of vomiting, may breathe material into the lungs and thus develop pneumonia. In addition to this, he is unable to receive any nourishment; therefore, an operation must be performed as soon as the diagnosis is made and, if possible, by the time the baby is three days old.

Another one of these congenital malformations is known as pyloric stenosis. This is a blocking of the opening between the stomach and bowel due to enlargement of the muscle. This condition is also treated by means of an operation, which should be carried out promptly. However, it may be necessary to build up the baby's condition by the giving of fluids under the skin, and injections of whole blood into a vein, before the operation is performed.

Tissue Growths
The first part of the bowel also may become blocked due to constrictive bands of tissue growths.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. J. S.: My hands are numb all the time. What could cause this trouble?
Answer: Numbness of the hands may be due to a disturbance of the circulation or to some trouble with the nervous system. Because of the variety of causes responsible, a complete study by your physician would be required to determine the cause in your case.

LEARN HOW TO REVERSE

IT IS DIFFICULT for some pretty fair players to learn how to apply what experts call "reverse dummy" play to a deal. That term means simply that the declarer treats the dummy as the master hand and sets it up instead of setting up his own holding. This reversal is especially important with some suit contracts, whereby the declarer employs his own trumps for ruffing and uses those in the dummy for trump leads. Maybe it will help if we present a deal "upside down" as compared to the customary position.

East led the club Q against that funny bidding, the K and A covering and the spade A ruffing it. Now please consider the South hand as if it were the declarer's and North's the dummy. That will help the average player to catch the idea of reverse play. Under this plan, South's trumps will be used for trump leads and North's for whatever ruffing is done.

The declarer is pretty sure East must have had the heart A for his one bid, so to the second lead brings the heart 4 from North to the 10 and Q. Now he ruffs the 10 with the spade 4, leads the diamond 3 to the 10 and then eliminates South's last club, the 5, by ruffing with the spade K.

He lays down North's last trump, the Q, goes to the 10 and lays down the spade J, 10 and 9 to clear West of trumps. The diamond A, followed by the K brings a discard of the heart 3 and the last trick is given up to the heart A.

Study will show that, if North tries to set up his own hand, he can't possibly do it against West's holding of four trumps.

SYNOPSIS
Attractive Kit Marshall was elated when the employment agency she had registered with upon arriving in New York offered her a position as social secretary to glamorous Tracy Field, one of America's most publicized beauties. It was arranged that Miss Field's chauffeur would drive Kit to the Connecticut estate where her employer was spending the summer. Dining sumptuously in celebration before returning to her room to pack, she was amused when an affable young man who was leaving the restaurant asked her about having an enormous appetite. Kit's parents had died when she was a baby and she had lived happily with her kindly Aunt Chris in Washington until three months ago when a spiteful friend had disclosed publicly that Kit's father once served a prison term for theft. When Aunt Chris reluctantly admitted it was true, she had resigned her job and come to New York to start anew. Kit was ready when Cecil, Miss Field's chauffeur, arrived. However, she was not the only occupant of the luxurious car, for there in the back seat sat the young man of the restaurant episode. He introduced himself as Mike Sanders.

CHAPTER FOUR

MIKE grinned his likeable grin. "You don't do yourself justice, Kit. Now relax. It's quite a drive. My car's in for repairs else I should not be traveling so luxuriously. So you're Tracy's new secretary. Are you, or were you a newspaper girl?"

"No. Why?"
"The place where I saw you yesterday is a hang-out for the newspaper crowd."
"I didn't know. I just happened there by chance."

His eyes were kind but still amused. In them she read, "And you were hungry yesterday? Kit. That's why you happened there by chance. You were celebrating a job with a meal..." He asked, "Been in New York long?"
"Three months."
"No job?"

"You're asking a lot of questions."
He laughed. "That's my business, asking questions. I'm a newspaperman. So you won't talk, eh? Probably from a reformatory... What reformatory? I won't tell a soul..."

She did not know that Mike saw a cloud pass over her bright face. Reform school... It was so closely allied to prison...

Mike said, "How did I get so grumpy? Let's be gay. We're going up to Connecticut, you to a job, I to a swim and some tennis. You'll be up there all summer away from the heat, won't you?"
She turned and looked at him. "Yes, a little. It's so new for me. And I want terribly to make good and be liked."

"Her name scares you." He nodded. "I know. But she's just a girl, another girl. But she gets her name in the papers oftener. Publicity is like peanuts. You can't stop eating them once you start, you know."

"She's never been married?"
Now I'm asking a lot of questions, she thought.
Mike rested his shaggy brown head against the expensive upholstery, grinned at her again and said, "There are two kinds of men for Tracy, the ones who are too proud to touch her dough and the ones who want to marry her for it. The first kind won't marry her and the second she's smart about."

That's why she's never been married. And is she smart. Don't think she's just a dumb rich girl. And don't be scared. When the last secretary lugubriously reminded Tracy that what she was spending on a party would feed so many refugees, Tracy fired her. She said that a good secretary would know how much she gave to charity. You watch your step and mind your business and you're set for life. There's only one thing the matter as I see it...

"What is that?"
"You're too good looking. You look as fresh as the proverbial daisy. Nothing you can do about that, I suppose... no shadows beneath the eyes, no drooping chin..."

Kit smiled. "I'm afraid not."
Mike smiled again. He smiled easily, boyishly. "Why don't you ask me who I am? Haven't you any curiosity? I'm the rags-to-riches theme—slum boy who graduated from selling newspapers to writing in them. Of course I'm still at the rags stage but I get close to riches when I go up here to see Tracy."

"Have you known her long?"
"Since I went for an interview and stayed for dinner about five years ago. She says she likes me because I never tell the truth but at least I'm honest about it." He looked at her a moment before he said quite earnestly, "You think I'm a smart-alec, don't you? Perhaps I am. But underneath I'm a tender-hearted guy. Wait and see. You're a good kid."

"You know that on such short acquaintance?"
He laughed. "You're not only a good kid—you're delightful!" Then he said earnestly and frowning, "It's quite a lay-out you're going to, but Tracy lives pretty informally. He spoke about it as he glanced out the window. 'Tracy is surrounded by parasites who were born only to be ladies and gentlemen and who now can't afford to be anything but parasites. They're a pretty pitiful lot. They'll snub you as they snub me, all the while wishing they had your salary to depend on. They're the sad remnants of the days when great fortunes were made. They're people living under glass. They go up to Tracy's in swell clothes that aren't paid for—mainly for their meals. Maybe you aren't interested but they're the ones who will put you in your place if you overstep the bounds. They think Tracy is slumming when they see her with me."

"I don't know why people are like that."

"We're equals. You'd better call me Mike..."

"Why do you go up there, Mike?"
"That's a good question. Why not?" He shrugged. "I'm broke and lazy and up there I get the urge to take some exercise. I don't sponger, if that's what you mean. And I'm conspicuously absent from the big evening shindigs."

They lapsed into silence. Kit staring out the window, Mike looking contented with his pipe. And Kit pushed back the thought of Tracy Field and everything that went with her.

Why had her father done it? Had her mother been long-suffering in the knowledge that her husband was a thief? What sort of people had they been? Not knowing, truly loved each other? Not knowing, she could neither scorn nor pity but go on wondering. It had been eighteen years ago. If only she could find someone who had known the case. She glanced at Mike. He was a newspaperman and there were files... But I can't ask him, she thought. He might make a story out of me and Tracy wouldn't want me. You don't go around to prison people that your father went to prison...

They were driving in a vast country that was in the first, fresh bloom of early summer. Presently Cecil turned the car from the main highway into a winding shady road. Ten minutes later a house came into view, a huge white house. Kit had only a glimpse of the swimming pool and two tall trees in white playing tennis before the car stopped and the butler came out to greet the baggage.

Kit stepped into a vast hall where she was promptly greeted by Mrs. McIntyre, a white-haired, wiry little woman with alert dark eyes and a ready smile.

Mike introduced them. Then he said, "Be nice to her, Mac, and I'll give you a bonus."
Mrs. McIntyre shook her head. "You're always going on, Mr. Sanders. I'll show you to your room. Miss Marshall..."

Kit turned to Mike. "Thank you."

"Thank me when I've earned it." He watched her go up the broad stairs with Mac before he turned and went out to look for Tracy. (To Be Continued)

YOUR FUTURE

The influences rife today make the early hours of this birthday pleasant and social, and later they are good for visiting relatives or friends at distant points. Study and writing also are favored. Your next year will be a mixed one. Business will expand in certain directions, employers being especially helpful. However, it is wise to refrain from speculation and law; watch your expenditures. Your health will improve. For that rare creature who celebrates on Feb. 29th, it will be a pleasant day if you keep your mind off depressing subjects. Also avoid health errors. The stellar vibrations warn against doubtful love affairs for this birthday person, also unstable friends. Exercise care in dealings with elders and safeguard your health in the year just starting.

JOBS UPON A TIME

Screen and Radio Comedian Groucho Marx, whose real name is Julius, with his brothers, Chico, Harpo and Zeppo, all born in New York, got their first stage experience in a vaudeville act with their mother and aunt, being known as "Six Musical Mascots." Later the brothers toured as the "Four Nightingales," and finally as "The Marx Brothers." Groucho plays as one of the best guitar players in the United States and also plays the piano, mandolin and harp. In 1937 Groucho collaborated in a screen play, "The King and the Chorus Girl." Radio's Florence Halop plays comedy such as the "Miss Duffy," of "Duffy's Tavern." Florence studied law at the University of California at Los Angeles, modeled in New York and

BEAR QUESTION

DR. CHARLES P. LYMAN, assistant curator of the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology, and Fish and Game Deputy Commissioner W. Earl Bradbury of Augusta, Maine, disagree on the question of whether bears hibernate in winter. This is a restful contest. It does not involve questions of policy, foreign or domestic. It has no immediate bearing on the economic situation, and has nothing to do with the presidential election.

It started with the fact that the Maine woods are full of large black bears this winter, and the farmers and game wardens are not equipped to cope with them.

The game commissioner firmly claims that bears have hitherto slept all winter, and that such is normal behavior for bears. The Harvard expert declares that only woodchucks, ground squirrels and bats hibernate. Bears get a lot of sleep in the winter, he admits, but never enter a state of suspended animation.

The recent devastating forest fires in Maine are recalled. Perhaps lack of cover may make the bears more noticeable this year. The customary hiding places of many animals may have been destroyed.

If the disputants cannot agree, perhaps someone had better ask the bears.

RED MONROE DOCTRINE

IS THERE a Russian "Monroe Doctrine?" Henry Wallace seems to think there is; some Russian sympathizers in this country certainly do. According to this idea, Eastern Europe is territory from which the Russians justifiably bar outside aggression, just as we promise to do in South and Central America. Put like this, the Russian supremacy over its satellites does not sound so bad.

One important difference exists, however, which the veteran writer on public affairs, Sir Norman Angell, points out in his new book, "The Steep Places". The Russians do not merely protect Yugoslavia and its neighbors from outsiders; they choose their governments, and if necessary order the local Communist sympathizers to start a revolution. The United States does not dream of such action. We do not like Peron in Argentina, but we have financed no revolutionary movement against him.

Superficial resemblances often are far from telling the whole story. The present Czechoslovakian situation is definitely a case in point. It may subside for the present, uncomfortably for the Czechs and Slovaks, or it may be working into an explosion which will rock the world.

There was a time when there were no locomotive whistles, and it may be a good guess that such a time will come again, as the poets say, "with the revolving years."

Up and about on a darkening day that soon lived up to its threat of rain. But it was rain, not snow and that is something. Met Bill Kochheiser, who with John Maddux went to Florida to miss some of our February weather. Basked in the sunshine, caught some inland bass and had some luck at reef fishing. "Wouldn't trade a week in the North woods for an entire winter in Florida," is Bill's comment. My idea, too.

Dropped in at John Himrod's antique shop and found him busy making a special table for the county engineer's office. Antique business is way off right now and the reason not evident. Got a renewal of a promise to deliver enough kiln dried walnut to make a gun case. Cut on John's farm where he is putting the finishing touches on his lovely new home. ## These Days

For some reason, not understandable, President Truman, in 1946, appointed an aged missionary, Dr. Leighton Stuart, as the American ambassador to China. He followed a long line of extraordinary competent men, John Van Antwerp MacMurray, Nelson T. Johnson, Clarence E. Gauss.

These men knew China, knew its language, its history, its traditions, its personalities. MacMurray was one of the leading scholars of his time in China's international relations, probably second only to Dr. Westel W. Willoughby of Johns Hopkins.

The China desk in the State department has usually been in the charge of an outstanding, world-known authority on Far Eastern affairs, one whose reputation went far beyond the confines of the State department. The last of men of such calibre was Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, who held the post under various titles from 1928 to 1944, but whose influence waned as the New Dealers became more influential in the control of our foreign policy. In his place appeared a cabal of intriguing young men who served not the national interest but their private opinion. The Far Eastern section of the State Department became a private club of smart boys.

To China were sent General Pat Hurley, General Joe Stillwell, General George Marshall, General Wedemeyer and the ancient missionary, Dr. Stuart Hurley, with his sense of practical politics, saw the picture as it is: namely, that the enemy is Soviet Russia and that the Chinese Communists would sooner or later be instructed to hate the United States. He did not elevate Chiang Kai-shek into an angel of pristine purity; he saw him as the inevitable ally of the United States. That was all that could be required.

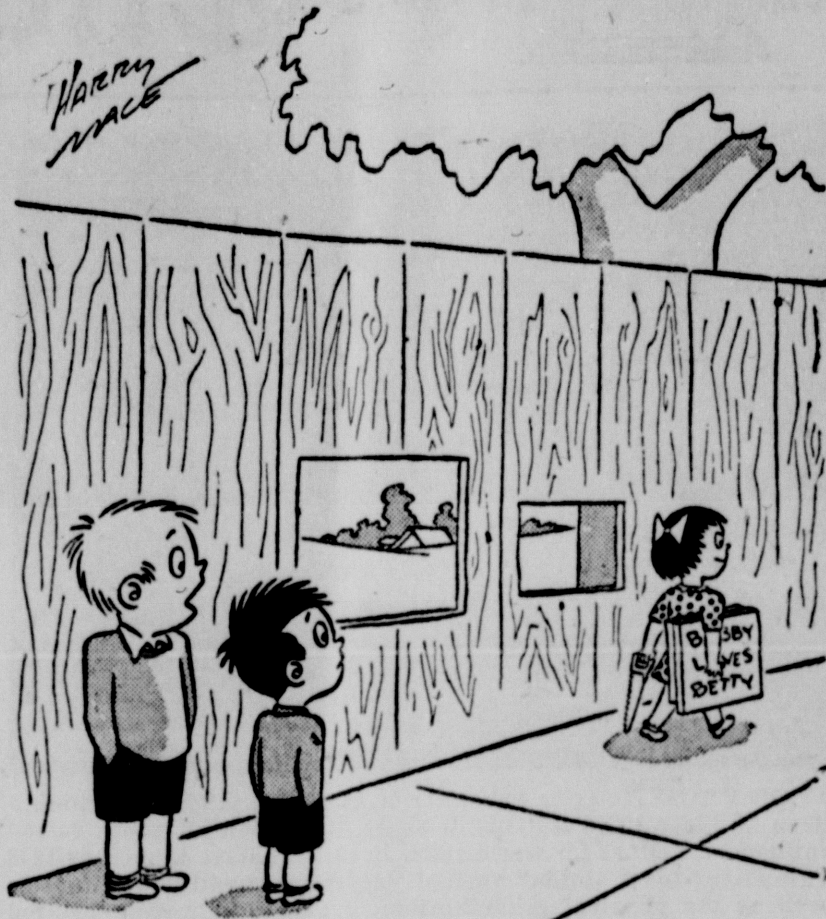

General Stillwell saw only himself. He wanted to run the show. He was used to running any show he was appointed to run. The fact that China had a government of its own, an army, a general staff, the further fact that the Chinese, in their primitive way, had managed to withstand and to kill Japanese for more years than Stillwell was a general, did not interest "Vinegar" Joe. He told Chiang Kai-shek to hand over his army—which in war meant the entire country—to him. Chiang told him to clear out. China has survived many Stillwells in its 4,000 years of history.

So along came General Mars hall. He brought the light of the ages: Love thine enemy. No one can question the vitality of the adage, except that Chiang Kai-shek had tried it on and off since 1925. Chiang has had a long experience of trying to do business with Russia and its agents, the Chinese Communists. As a matter of fact, China has had a longer experience, since the Treaty of Nerchinsk (1689). But Marshall thought he would try his hand at it.

He stayed in China more than a year and took a violent dislike to Chiang Kai-shek and the Kuomintang. They reminded him of Boss Hague of New Jersey, Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Boss Crump of Memphis, Boss Kelly of Chicago, Harry Hopkins, George Allen, and lots of other American politicians. He apparently preferred the Chinese Communists because he did not know them. So he came away a complete failure. He blamed Chiang Kai-shek for that. Of course, he might have read some history and he might have known that it is ever thus.

When a Baby is Malformed

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
SOMETIMES a baby comes into the world ill-fitted for life by reason of some bodily malformation present at the time of birth. Fortunately, today the skill of the surgeon can do much to correct many of these defects of nature so that many of these children can now be saved. One of these disorders is known as atresia of the esophagus.

Operation Necessary
In this condition, the upper end of the esophagus has not united with the lower end; hence an operation must be performed to bring the two ends together. The sooner the operation is done, the better, since the infant, as a result of vomiting, may breathe material into the lungs and thus develop pneumonia. In addition to this, he is unable to receive any nourishment; therefore, an operation must be performed as soon as the diagnosis is made and, if possible, by the time the baby is three days old.

Another one of these congenital malformations is known as pyloric stenosis. This is a blocking of the opening between the stomach and bowel due to enlargement of the muscle. This condition is also treated by means of an operation, which should be carried out promptly. However, it may be necessary to build up the baby's condition by the giving of fluids under the skin and injections of whole blood into a vein, before the operation is performed.

Tissue Growth
The first part of the bowel also may become blocked due to constrictive bands of tissue growths.

Success in these cases depends upon how early the diagnosis is made, and upon the infant's general condition before the operation is carried out.

Another condition requiring immediate operation in babies in most cases is known as intussusception. This is a sort of telescoping of the bowel. About nine out of every ten cases occur in male infants between the ages of five and eighteen months. The disorder begins suddenly with pain in the abdomen and the passage of blood and bloody mucus from the lower bowel. Usually a swelling can be felt in the abdomen. It has been stated that, for every hour over twelve hours that the condition persists, the chances of recovery are reduced in proportion.

During the first year of life, a condition known as diaphragmatic hernia may also occur. In this disorder, the stomach or bowel passes through the diaphragm into the chest cavity. The diagnosis usually can be made by an X-ray study of the chest. Here again, operation is required for a cure. An operation, as a rule, should be carried out as quickly as the patient can be prepared for it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. J. S.: My hands are numb all the time. What could cause this trouble?
Answer: Numbness of the hands may be due to a disturbance of the circulation or to some trouble with the nervous system. Because of the variety of causes responsible, a complete study by your physician would be required to determine the cause in your case.

LEARN HOW TO REVERSE

IT IS DIFFICULT for some pretty fair players to learn how to apply what experts call "reverse dummy" play to a deal. That term means simply that the declarer treats the dummy as if instead of setting up his own holding. This reversal is especially important with some suit contracts, whereby the declarer employs his own trumps for ruffing and uses those in the dummy for trump leads. Maybe it will help if we present a deal "upside down" as compared to the customary position.

♠ A K Q 4
♥ K 9 7 5 4
♦ A K J 3
♣ None

♠ 8 7 5 3
♦ 8 5 4
♣ A 8 7

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass
5 ♠ Pass 6 ♠ Pass

East led the club Q against that funny bidding, the K and A covering and the spade A ruffing it. Now please consider the South hand as if it were the declarer's and North's the dummy. That will help the average player to catch the idea of reverse play. Under this plan, South's trumps will be used for trump leads and North's for whatever ruffing is done.

The declarer is pretty sure East must have had the heart A for his one bid, so to the second lead brings the heart 4 from North to the 10 and Q. Now he ruffs the club 7 with the spade 4, leads the diamond 3 to the 10 and then eliminates South's last club, the 5, by ruffing with the spade K.

He lays down North's last trump, the Q, goes to the South with the diamond J to the Q and lays down the spade J, 10 and 9 to clear West of trumps. The diamond A, followed by the K, brings a discard of the heart 3 and the last trick is given up to the heart A.

Study will show that, if North tries to set up his own hand, he can't possibly do it against West's holding of four trumps.

Your Week-End Question

Why should a defender false-card in his leads, plays and discards against a grand slam more freely than he would against a lower contract?

SYNOPSIS
Attractive Kit Marshall was elated when the employment agency she had registered with upon arriving in New York offered her a position as social secretary to glamorous Tracy Field, one of America's most publicized hair-esses. It was arranged that Miss Field's chauffeur would drive Kit to the Connecticut estate where her employer was spending the summer.

During a luncheon in celebration of her return to her room to pack, she was amused when an affable young man who was leaving the restaurant chided her about having an enormous appetite. Kit's parents had died when she was a baby and she had lived happily with her kindly Aunt Chris in Washington until three months ago, when a spiteful friend had disclosed publicly that Kit's father once served a prison term for theft. When Aunt Chris reluctantly admitted it was true, she had resigned her job and come to New York to start anew. Kit was ready when Cecil, Miss Field's chauffeur, arrived. However, she was not the only occupant of the luxurious car, for there in the back seat sat the young man of the restaurant episode. He introduced himself as Mike Saunders.

Mike rested his shaggy brown head against the expensive upholstery, grinned at her again and said, "There are two kinds of men for Tracy, the ones who are too proud to touch her dough and the ones who want to marry her for it. The first kind won't marry her and the second she's smart about. That's why she's never been married. And she's smart. Don't think she's just a dumb rich girl. And don't be scared. "What is that?"
"You're too good looking. You look as fresh as the proverbial daisy. Nothing you can do about that, I suppose . . . no shadows beneath the eyes, no drooping chin . . ."

Kit smiled. "I'm afraid not." Mike smiled again. He smiled easily, boyishly. "Why don't you ask me who I am? Haven't you any curiosity? I'm the rag-toriches theme—slum boy who graduated from selling newspapers to writing in them. Of course I'm still at the rags stage but I get close to riches when I go up here to see Tracy."

"Have you known her long?"
"Since I went for an interview and stayed for dinner about five years ago. She says she likes me because I never tell the truth but at least I'm honest about it." He looked at her a moment before he said quite earnestly, "You think I'm a smart-alec, don't you? Perhaps I am. But underneath I'm a tender-hearted guy. Wait and see. You're a good kid."

"You know that on such short acquaintance?"
He laughed. "You're not only a good kid—you're delightful!" Then he said earnestly and frowning, "It's quite a lay-out you're going to, but Tracy lives pretty informally. He spoke slowly as he glanced out the window. "Tracy is surrounded by parasites who were born only to be ladies and gentlemen and who now can't afford to be anything but parasites. "I don't know why people are like that."

"Why do you go up there, Mike?"
"That's a good question. Why not?" He shrugged. "I'm broke and lazy and up there I get the urge to take some exercise. I don't sponge, if that's what you mean. And I'm conspicuously absent from the big evening shindigs."

They lapsed into silence. Kit staring out the window, Mike looking contented with his pipe. And Kit pushed back the thought of Tracy Field and everything that went with her.

Your next year will be a mixed one. Business will expand in certain directions, employers being especially helpful. However, it is wise to refrain from speculation and law; watch expenditures. Your health will improve. For that rare creature who celebrates on Feb. 29th, it will be a pleasant day if you keep your mind off depressing subjects. Also avoid health errors. The stellar vibrations warn against doubtful love affairs for this birthday person, also untidy friends. Exercise care in dealings with elders and safeguard your health in the year just starting.

Confidence in another man's virtue, is no slight evidence of one's own. —Montaigne.

JOBS UPON A TIME

Screen and Radio Comedian Groucho Marx, whose real name is Julius, with his brothers, Chico, Harpo and Zeppo, all born in New York, got their first stage experience in a vaudeville act with their mother and aunt, being known as "Six Musical Mascots." Later the brothers toured as the "Four Nightingales," and finally as "The Four Marx Brothers." Groucho was one of the best guitar players in the United States and also plays the piano, mandolin and harp. In 1937 Groucho collaborated in a screen play, "The King and the Chorus Girl." Radio's Florence Halop plays comedy such as the "Miss Duffy," of "Duffy's Tavern."

Circleville High School SOS Organizations Have Annual Dance Friday

Teachers Are Named 'Queens'

The annual dance sponsored by Service-Over-Self, an organization in the Circleville high school, previously known as "Sweetheart" dance, was termed "Leap Year" dance when its members danced Friday evening in the social rooms of the high school.

Junior and Senior SOS members and their guests danced to popular recordings during the social evening. As is their custom they elect a "queen" to reign for the evening. This year the group selected Mrs. Paul Brown and Miss Elma Rains, their advisors, to be their honored "queens."

The room was artistically festooned in green and white crepe paper. At the east end of the room were the letters SOS and two decorated chairs for the "queens." A dessert course was served at the conclusion of the successful affair.

Committees who were busily engaged in making the dance a highlight of the schools' social activities were Edna Maynard, head of the decoration committee. Lois Campbell, chairman

Mr. and Mrs. George Steeley, Mrs. Channing Vlerebome, Mrs. E. S. Neuding and Mrs. Ella Hornbeck of Circleville were among the guests at a dinner given by Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker in her home, Williamsport. The affair was arranged in celebration of her husband's 87th birthday.

If you travel and take your electric iron, be sure it can be used on both alternating and direct current. Lightweight folding irons usually have no thermostatic control and can be used on either AC or DC, but irons with thermostats may not be suited for both types of current, and may be ruined by using the wrong current. Generally the current is stamped on the iron or its name plate.

Williams Routs Kid From Cuba

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—Plans for a gripping encounter between Ray Robinson and Kid Gavilan of Cuba for the world's welterweight championship were a little like the left side of Gavilan's face today—unsettled.

The face became very ambiguous during 10 rounds of blood-letting with lightweight champion Ike Williams at Madison Square Garden last night and emerged from same in one large, formless blob.

So did the Gavilan reputation, previously given the helium treatment.

It seems likely now that he was near Robinson during last night's introductions as he'll never get.

After all, the champion in the class below closed one of Gavilan's eyes and half-closed the other. He had Gavilan down for eight from an overhand right at the close of the eighth round. Gavilan barely stayed up under a left hook as the bell rang to close the fourth.

3rd Boxer Dies Of Ring Injuries

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28—Death for the third time in recent months stepped into the prize fight ring when Leroy Decatur, 20-year-old Los Angeles Negro lightweight, was felled during a bout last night at Hollywood Legion stadium and never regained consciousness.

Decatur, married and the father of a two-year-old child, was knocked to the floor by Frederico Herrera of Jerome, Ariz., with only ten seconds remaining in the four-round preliminary bout.

Herrera said that he hit Decatur with a left hook to the stomach, followed by a right cross to the chin. He stepped back to wait for a counter attack but his opponent, instead of coming at him, collapsed.

The cycle of ring deaths started only a few months ago when another Los Angeles boxer, Jimmy Doyle, died during a bout with Sugar Ray Robinson at Cleveland.

Just a week ago in Chicago another boxer, Sam Baroudi, died following a knockout at the hands of Ezzard Charles.

Kids To Play

The Scioto and Muhlenberg grade schools will play a double-header basketball game beginning at 1 p. m. Sunday in the Pickaway County Coliseum. Admission will be free to the public.

Tournament Highlights

Pickaway, Saltcreek, Scioto and Walnut is the way the record read after the Friday night, played before 3,000 basketball enthusiasts who jammed into Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Even though ticket sales had been stopped at 7:30 p. m., the stands were so packed turnery officials asked fans to stay on their seats the full game in order to prevent the inevitable confusion which would have arisen if the request had not been respected.

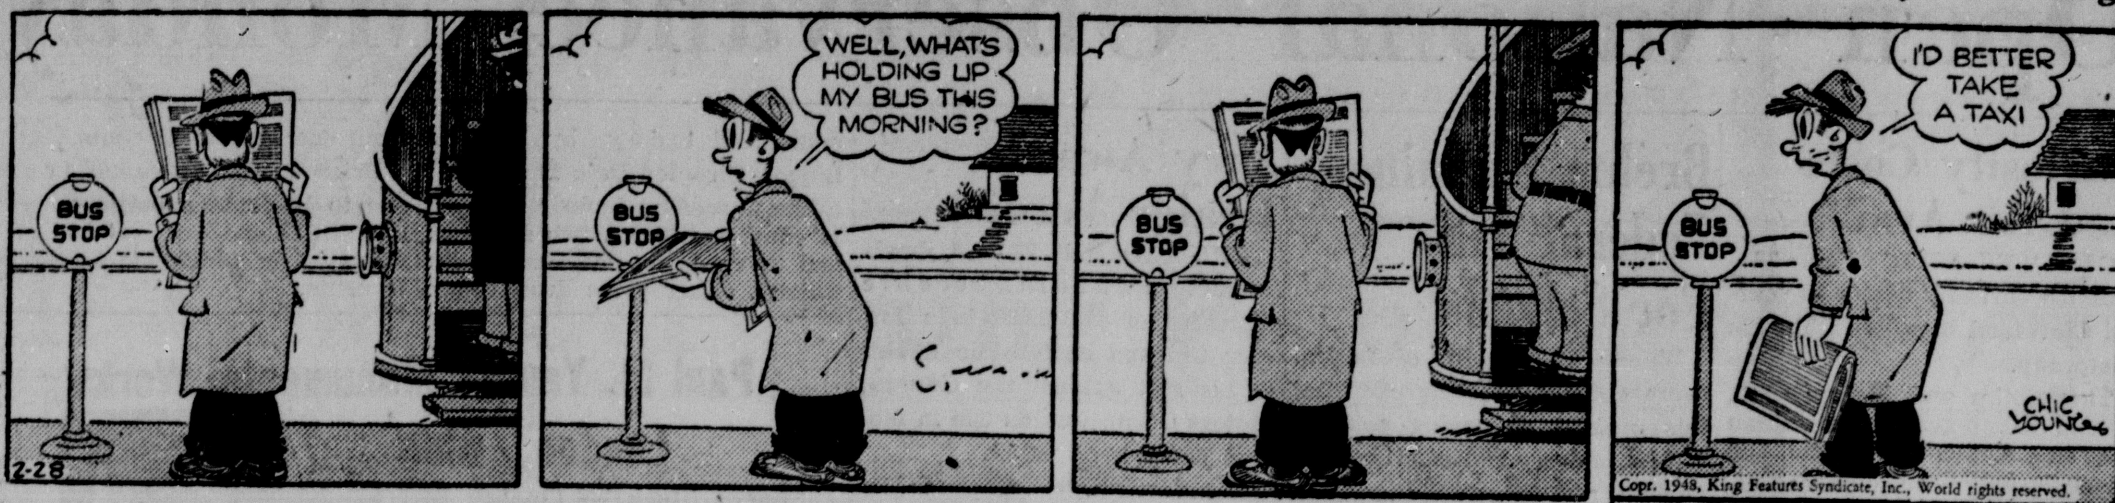

Excitement and tension ran so high one of the Saltcreek squad, who had arrived at the games with a cold, was sent home after falling in a faint.

Officials Owen Scheetz and William Howard were credited for calling one of the finest games yet in the coliseum. Howard, who had been having whistle trouble—the instrument failing in to produce noise—during his part of the officiating, finally decided he could do a new one, halting the Pickaway-Saltcreek 1-1 game in the third period to procure another one. It also was on the blink.

The floor became slippery in the final period of the Scioto-Walnut game, necessitating the opening of windows to allow better circulation in the building. Although the players slipped and skidded around, none was

4-H Clubs Here To Open National Observance Monday

Week-Long Program Scheduled

Banquet Friday To Be Highlight

"Creating better homes today for a more responsible citizenship tomorrow," is the 1948 theme as Pickaway County 4-H Club members join nearly two million other participants in the observance of National 4-H Club Week beginning Monday.

The celebration marks the opening of the 35th year of club work in which more than 14 million boys and girls have benefited from active participation in the character building movement.

An extensive program has been planned by Miss Genevieve Alley, county home demonstration agent, and L. A. Best, county agriculture agent, which will be highlighted Friday with a 4-H Club advisors' banquet at 7 p. m. in the Pickaway Arms.

Main speakers on Friday's program will be: C. C. Long, assistant state 4-H Club leader; W. W. Brownfield, district supervisor; and Mrs. Alice King, assistant state home demonstration leader.

DICK CECI, farm radio editor, will make a recording of the banquet meeting to be used for a broadcast over station WOSU. Pickaway County figures compared to state statistics show there are 34 clubs in the county and 3,791 in Ohio; the county has 57 advisors and the state 6,345; there are 513 county 4-H Club members compared to 56,094 in the state; county members have launched 624 projects and completed 93 percent of them compared to 84 percent completion in Ohio.

This will be the 14th consecutive year the National 4-H Food Preparation awards program will be conducted. Last year more than 350,000 4-H Club girls took part in the program with winners receiving honor medals, Chicago 4-H Club Congress trips and $200 college scholarships.

In 1947, Marilyn Miller was the Pickaway County medal winner. Recently, a large oil company joined in the 4-H Club program by offering a course in tractor maintenance. This winter, 35 club leaders were enrolled in the course at Ohio State university who in turn will pass along their knowledge to others.

DURING THE Summer, hundreds of 4-H Club members in the state will compete for recognition as the outstanding farm producers of their counties. Winners in the tractor program will be awarded a medal signifying their achievements.

The 1948 club activities planned by Miss Alley and Best for Pickaway County members include: Club organization and program planning for March and April; raising the quota for the 4-H Club Foundation Fund; health examination for each member; discussing methods and maintenance of a pure water supply.

Removal of fire and safety hazards on the farm and in the home; leading local community service activities as established and conducted by each club; 4-H Club members, advisors and families are to attend church as a group on Rural Life Sunday; each member is to complete one or more projects.

Each member is to increase his emphasis on junior leader.

Local Judge Says Modern Juries Failing To Do Jobs Properly

"Modern day juries have fallen into disrepute," was the claim made by Judge William D. Radcliff of the Pickaway County common pleas court before a meeting of the Ashville PTA council.

"If justice is to be meted equitably to all men, we must first reckon with our jury system," the judge declared.

Lewis' Pension Idea Disliked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The soft coal industry today showed no sign of relaxing its opposition to John L. Lewis' pension proposal after a full-dress conference on the issue by operators from all sections of the country.

In a five-hour session in Washington, the mine owners heard "tentative reports" on an actuarial study of Lewis' demand for a $100 a month pension for miners aged 60 with 20 years of service.

One industry spokesman said the cost of the UMW president's plan would greatly exceed the $60 million annually now being paid to the miners welfare fund from a 10 cents a ton royalty on coal.

9 Boys Flee Boarding House

SANDUSKY, Feb. 28—A near-by Berlin Heights "private" boarding house, from which nine boys fled earlier this week because of conditions which they described as "unbearable," was to be investigated today by juvenile court authorities.

The home, which houses 11 boys, is under the jurisdiction of Erie County juvenile court because the county children's home is filled to capacity.

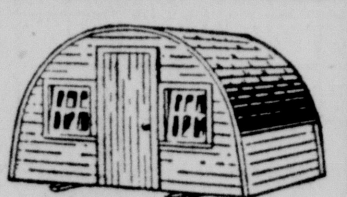

The boys told authorities that they ran away because of improper and unfit food, frequent whippings with a razor strap and because they "would rather go to jail than stay in that boarding house."

ship; train individual and team demonstrators and judging teams and conduct local club tours.

Three camp outings are planned for the year. The 4-H camp at Tar Hollow, Junior Leadership camp and Conservation camp at Camp Ohio.

The four elimination contests for girls to select entries for the state fair include: participation in the state fair; state 4-H Club Congress, Sept. 12-18; Pickaway County Fair, Sept. 15-18; and local and county 4-H Club achievement programs.

Curiosity Costs Lad An Arm

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28—Childish curiosity cost a 10-year-old Cleveland boy his right arm yesterday.

The victim was Duane A. Stucin, fourth-grade pupil at an east side elementary school, run down by a 10-ton crane.

The boy told police he slipped into the West Steel Castings Co. plant to watch operations in the melting room. He climbed up on an I-beam to get a better look.

The crane, which used the beam as a rail, suddenly bore down on the lad before he could move. His arm was nearly severed by the wheel of the crane. Doctors amputated the member a short time later at Pkymclic hospital.

Ohio May Get Tidewater Title

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—Rep. Alvin Weichel (R) Ohio, introduced a bill today which would give the state of Ohio clear title to all submerged lands under Lake Erie.

Under terms of the measure, the United States would abandon title to all tidewaters and lands beneath navigable waters within U. S. boundaries.

Weichel said his bill would protect Ohio's ownership of fish life in Lake Erie, and protect the state's title to any oil or mineral resource from the underwater land.

Sentence Due

AKRON, Feb. 28—Sentence will be imposed Monday upon Jack Lewis, 21-year-old carpenter from nearby Tallmadge in the shooting of his wife, Catherine, 20, last August. Lewis declared that the shooting was an accident.

These Days

General Wedemeyer went over and made a report which is still secret. Many rumors are afloat as to what the report contains, including the absurdity that Manchuria, which Russia is stealing from China, be internationalized. The general impression, however, is that Wedemeyer proposed that we back Chiang Kai-shek with full military support, so that he may more successfully kill Chinese Communists who are agents of the all-conquering Soviet Russia.

Brehm Booming Federal Aid For Schools

Walter E. Brehm, of Logan, representative to Congress from this district, is urging passage of legislation which will provide federal aid for public schools. Bipartisan bills are pending in both houses of Congress.

Brehm declared Saturday in Washington that "Enlightened reason and truth, through education, will go far toward solving our social and economic problems. The federal government should help the states which are financially unable to provide an adequate standard of education for their people."

There are slight differences in the House and Senate bills, but they are alike in principle and purpose.

Under the Senate bill, Ohio would receive annually $5 for each pupil of school age. Its total yearly quota would be $7,090,000. The schools of every state in the nation are suffering from a shortage of trained teachers and inadequate facilities.

REPORTS of the National Education Association indicate that the instruction of at least 2,000,000 children is adversely affected by these conditions, and that 5,000,000 school-age children are not attending any school.

Federal aid funds would be apportioned on the basis of need, ability, and effort in the individual states, while assuring continuance of state control of the schools.

Preserving the Land Is Like Flying Old Glory Full Mast

Farming the conservation way is not unlike flying Old Glory full mast. For the man who genuinely loves the soil, there is a sense of pride and security in the land defended well against the ravages of erosion and constant harvest. As the flag is our emblem of defense against harm from beyond our borders, conservation farming is the pattern for protection against forces, also destructive, within our own land.

We have seen the land resources of our continent squandered. Working together—all of us—we can prevent further needless destruction of the soil. We can rebuild the wasted land. But we will have to work at it. We will have to join hands and oppose careless farming even more effectively than we have heretofore.

As your John Deere Dealer in this community, we shall be more than glad to assist you in adapting your farm to the soil-saving practices of the conservation program.

Jury Awards Dealer Verdict

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—A jury's verdict awarding treble damages of $1,236,000 to a former Chicago automobile dealer in his suit against the General Motors Corp., was on file in federal court here today.

The verdict was returned last night in favor of Fred Emich, 49, a former General Motors (Chevrolet) dealer and now Illinois superintendent of transportation.

Emich charged his franchises for the operation of two GM agencies were cancelled in 1936 because he refused to do business through the General Motors Acceptance Corp.

4-H Clubs Here To Open National Observance Monday

Week-Long Program Scheduled

Banquet Friday To Be Highlight

"Creating better homes today for a more responsible citizenship tomorrow," is the 1948 theme as Pickaway County 4-H Club members join nearly two million other participants in the observance of National 4-H Club Week beginning Monday.

The celebration marks the opening of the 35th year of club work in which more than 14 million boys and girls have benefited from active participation in the character building movement.

An extensive program has been planned by Miss Genevieve Alley, county home demonstration agent, and L. A. Best, county agriculture agent, which will be highlighted Friday with a 4-H Club advisors' banquet at 7 p. m. in the Pickaway Arms.

Main speakers on Friday's program will be: C. C. Long, assistant state 4-H club leader; W. W. Brownfield, district supervisor; and Mrs. Alice King, assistant state home demonstration leader.

DICK CECH, farm radio editor, will make a recording of the banquet meeting to be used for a broadcast over station WOSU. Pickaway County figures compared to state statistics show there are 34 clubs in the county and 3,791 in Ohio; the county has 57 advisors and the state 6,345; there are 513 county 4-H club members compared to 56,094 in the state; county members have launched 624 projects and completed 93 percent of them compared to 84 percent completion in Ohio.

This will be the 14th consecutive year the National 4-H Food Preparation awards program will be conducted. Last year more than 350,000 4-H club girls took part in the program with winners receiving honor medals, Chicago 4-H club Congress trips and $200 college scholarships.

In 1947, Marilyn Miller was the Pickaway County medal winner. Recently, a large oil company joined in the 4-H Club program by offering a course in tractor maintenance. This winter, 35 club leaders were enrolled in the course at Ohio State university who in turn will pass along their knowledge to others.

DURING THE Summer, hundreds of 4-H club members in the state will compete for recognition as the outstanding farm producers of their counties. Winners in the tractor program will be awarded a medal signifying their achievements.

The 1948 club activities planned by Miss Alley and Best for Pickaway County members includes: Club organization and program planning for March and April; raising the quota for the 4-H Club Foundation Fund; health examination for each member; discussing methods and maintenance of a pure water supply.

Removal of fire and safety hazards on the farm and in the home; leading local community service activities as established and conducted by each club; 4-H club members, advisors and families are to attend church as a group on Rural Life Sunday; each member is to complete one or more projects.

Each member is to increase his emphasis on junior leader-

Local Judge Says Modern Juries Failing To Do Jobs Properly

"Modern day juries have fallen into disrepute," was the claim made by Judge William D. Radcliff of the Pickaway County common pleas court before a meeting of the Ashville PTA council.

"If justice is to be meted equitably to all men, we must first reckon with our jury system," the judge declared.

Lewis' Pension Idea Disliked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The soft coal industry today showed no sign of relaxing its opposition to John L. Lewis' pension proposal after a full-dress conference on the issue by operators from all sections of the country.

In a five-hour session in Washington, the mine owners heard "tentative reports" on an actuarial study of Lewis' demand for a $100 a month pension for miners aged 60 with 20 years of service.

One industry spokesman said the cost of the UMW president's plan would greatly exceed the $60 million annually now being paid to the miners welfare fund from a 10 cents a ton royalty on coal.

9 Boys Flee Boarding House

SANDUSKY, Feb. 28.—A near-by Berlin Heights "private" boarding house, from which nine boys fled earlier this week because of conditions which they described as "unbearable," was to be investigated today by juvenile court authorities.

The home, which houses 11 boys, is under the jurisdiction of Erie County juvenile court because the county children's home is filled to capacity.

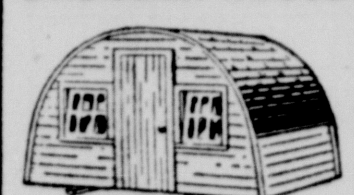

The boys told authorities that they ran away because of improper and unfit food, frequent whippings with a razor strop and because they "would rather go to jail than stay in that boarding house."

ship; train individual and team demonstrators and judging teams and conduct local club tours.

Three camp outings are planned for the year. The 4-H camp at Tar Hollow, Junior Leadership camp and Conservation camp at Camp Ohio.

The four elimination contests for girls to select entries for the state fair include: participation in the state fair; state 4-H Club Congress, Sept. 12-18; Pickaway County Fair, Sept. 15-18; and local and county 4-H club achievement programs.

Curiosity Costs Lad An Arm

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28.—Childish curiosity cost a 10-year-old Cleveland boy his right arm yesterday.

The victim was Duane A. Stucin, fourth-grade pupil at an east side elementary school, run down by a 10-ton crane.

The boy told police he slipped into the West Steel Castings Co. plant to watch operations in the melting room. He climbed up on an I-beam to get a better look.

The crane, which used the beam as a rail, suddenly bore down on the lad before he could move. His arm was nearly severed by the wheel of the crane. Doctors amputated the member a short time later at Polyclinic hospital.

Ohio May Get Tidewater Title

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Rep. Alvin Weichel (R) Ohio, introduced a bill today which would give the state of Ohio clear title to all submerged lands under Lake Erie.

Under terms of the measure, the United States would abandon title to all tidewaters and lands beneath navigable waters within U. S. boundaries.

Weichel said his bill would protect Ohio's ownership of fish life in Lake Erie, and protect the state's title to any oil or mineral resource from the underwater land.
